

The principle of the right of self-determination, i.e. patients' right to make their own decisions regarding medical care.

Note: Autonomy implies that people are free and able to make the decisions that affect them on the basis of their own system of values and beliefs.