

A quality management process that an organization uses to set goals and measure its performance against that of organizations recognized for their excellence.