

1) A duly trained and paid person who provides a person with a disease or disability with care.

2) A person (often a family member or friend), paid or unpaid, who regularly provides a person with a disease or disability with any form of care.