A meta-analysis based on Bayesian statistics for combining results of multiple studies that have different research designs, such as randomized controlled trials and observational studies, by adjusting the results of each individual study for its methodological biases before combining the results into a probability distribution for the parameter(s) of interest.