

In statistics, a mathematical function describing the frequency of each value of a variable.