

A statistical regression model that estimates the probability of a value of a dichotomous variable on the basis of multiple predictor variables.