

A mathematical function describing the probabilities associated with each value.

Note: For example, normal, chi square, binomial or Poisson distribution.