

A judgment concerning the acceptability of the risk (a measure of the probability of an adverse outcome and its severity) associated with using a technology in a given situation (e.g. for a patient with a particular health problem) by a clinician with certain training, or in a specified treatment setting.