

An evaluation of the financial impact of the introduction of a technology or service on the capital and operating budgets of a government or agency.