

In epidemiology, a person with the disease or characteristic of interest in a clinical trial.