

In clinical research, a technology or intervention that serves as a reference in comparative studies.

In health economics, an option with which the technology or intervention evaluated is compared.