A measurement of the usefulness of test results for making a diagnosis.

Note: This concept is used relatively little.