

A forced choice between two courses of actions, both of which have disadvantages.