

The superiority of an option that entails lower costs than another option and has benefits equal to or greater than the other option, or that entails costs equal to those of another option and has greater benefits than the other option.