In a study, the relationship between the outcome observed when an intervention is applied and the outcome observed in a control group.

Note: This relationship may be expressed as a number needed to treat, odds ratio, risk difference, relative risk, standardised mean difference or weighted mean difference.

(Related concept: treatment effect)