

A trial that measures under ideal conditions the effects of interventions, using carefully selected subjects in a clinical research setting.

Note: This type of trial is often used to evaluate the theoretical efficacy of interventions.

Ant.: pragmatic trial