

The difference between the cost of an option and the cost of another option with which it is compared.