

A form of bias linked to a restrictive literature search that excludes certain studies, because of the language in which they are published, from a systematic review or any other form of literature synthesis.