

The additional benefit produced by the use of additional resources, expressed, for example, in units of health outcome.