

The number of subjects treated per subject experiencing an adverse effect.

Note: This concept is the inverse of the absolute risk difference. The term was created as a variant of number needed to treat.