

An application made by the manufacturer to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for approval to market a medical product in the United States.

Note: This application includes the pertinent information documenting the safety and effectiveness of the product.

Alternative spellings: pre-market approval application, premarket approval application