

A file in which is registered, on an ongoing basis, information concerning all cases of a given disease or other problem in a defined population, such that the cases may be related to the database concerning that population.