

The qualitative or quantitative estimation of the likelihood of an adverse event that may result from exposure to a given risk factor or the absence of beneficial conditions.