

The combination of sources, terms and limits used in a literature search to identify the pertinent information for a systematic review or health technology assessment.