

A patient, health professional or decision maker using a literature review to make practical decisions about care, or a researcher conducting or considering new research.